Gold Medallist – 2nd Rank Holder

He was part of two clubs at IIM Bangalore, the Forum for Industrial Interaction (FII) and the Investment Fund. He participated in case competitions, which, he says, enabled him to put into practice his learnings from the classroom. Keenly interested in public policy, he won the Nexus case competition that sought ways to improve education outcomes in India.

IIM Bangalore, he says, provided him with the opportunity to build on his previous work experience, as well as extend his learning beyond the classroom through case discussions, term projects and business simulations. “The professors initiated and engaged in lively discussions about not only the course concepts but also their real-world applications.

Through case discussions and group projects, I was able to extend my professional network and learn from the diverse experiences of my peers. I also pursued an international exchange term at IE Business School in Spain last year which provided me the opportunity to interact, engage and learn from young management students belonging to more than 10 different countries.”

The youngest of three children, this 26-year old hails from Kanpur. His father is a retired police officer and his mother a homemaker. Both his siblings are also MBA graduates. His family currently resides in Lucknow. He pursued his undergraduate studies in Chemical Engineering from IIT Bombay and subsequently worked in ITC Limited, before joining the MBA programme in IIM Bangalore.

Sharing his future plans and dreams, he said that after graduation, he would be working as a Management Consultant. Going forward, he would like to contribute to the education sector and work on financial inclusion.
